From the Desk of the CEO

Rod Burkett

A few weeks ago, I participated in a Congressional Briefing event in Washington, DC, sponsored by the National Center for Assisted Living. I have attended several of these programs before, but it hasn't been held over the past two years due to the COVID pandemic. During this event we make organized visits over a couple of days to our various elected officials to discuss the challenges and successes of our Assisted living industry, and provide advice on how our members of Congress could assist us and better serve our residents and other stakeholders.

While walking thru the Capitol building and grounds, I remembered back to my first time being there as a fresh-faced, goofy 18-year old on my senior class trip. That was 48 years earlier. To further frame the timeline, President Nixon resigned 4 months after our visit, although I don't think our tour of the White House had anything to do with his upcoming departure. I wondered how I had changed during these past 5 decades, and how our country had also changed.

I think I'm more knowledgeable now about people, places and things. Next, I considered if I have transformed that knowledge into more wisdom and understanding about people, places, and things. Many days, I question my progress on that wisdom/understanding journey, and like most people I know, the answer is a mixed bag. I feel I have some level of success, while still being a fallible, messy human being, but so far, I'm still interested in making the effort to keep trying to figure it out.

So, how has our country changed over the same period? The USA is definitely more knowledgeable about people, places, and things, but what's our collective wisdom and understanding level? I would say that the answer is also a mixed bag. We've made great strides in many areas in nurturing our collective similarities and our differences, but our current state of polarization is not serving us well. It seems in today's world, when we have different opinions, we spend way too much energy trying to prove the other wrong, instead of looking for the positives that come from honoring all viewpoints. Our democracy, just like people, can be fallible and messy, as we connect with each other.

From what I saw in DC recently, while not a perfect process, most involved are still willing to keep trying to figure out the best way forward.

All About July
Rick Banas

All Hail! July is named after Julius Caesar.

In the northern hemisphere, July is usually the hottest month of the year. The hottest temperature ever recorded in the United States was on July 10, 1913, in Death Valley, California. The temperature reached 134 degrees. By contrast, in the southern half of the world, the temperature fell to 128.6 degrees below zero at Vostok Station in Antarctica in July 1983.

What are often referred to as the Dog Days of Summer begin on July 3 and end on Aug. 11.

On July 1, 1862, President Abraham Lincoln signed the first federal income tax legislation, which called for a tax of 3% on annual incomes of $600 to $10,000 and 5% on incomes above $10,000. An Act of Congress also established the Internal Revenue Bureau. Taxes began being withheld from paychecks on July 1, 1943.

The Lawrence Welk Show premiered on television on July 2, 1955. Dick Clark hosted American Bandstand for the first time on July 9, 1956.

Sam Walton opened the first WalMart in Rogers, Arkansas, in July 1962.

In July, we celebrate National Blueberry, Hot Dog, Picnic, Pickle, Ice Cream, and Watermelon Month.

Did you know that in addition to being a tasty treat, watermelons are a good source of Vitamins A and Vitamins C. They contain lycopene, fiber, and potassium. Watermelons also are more than 90% water so eating watermelon can help you stay hydrated.

Some other interesting facts about watermelon include:

- More than 1,200 varieties of watermelon are grown worldwide.
- Every part of the watermelon is edible, even the seeds and the rind.
- Early explorers used watermelons as canteens.
- Watermelons do not contain any fat or cholesterol.
- Watermelon reportedly can help quench the inflammation that contributes to such conditions as asthma, atherosclerosis, diabetes, colon cancer, and arthritis.
- Watermelons are a vegetable. They are related to cucumbers, pumpkins, and squash.

Talk about unusual celebrations. July 27 is Take Your Houseplant for a Walk Day.

WELLNESS

Can I Fill Your Cup?

Meghann Giarraputo MSN, RN

Water is necessary to not only survive, but also to thrive. Our body depends on water to function. The Centers for Disease Control & Prevention (CDC) notes that water helps our bodies to keep a normal temperature, it lubricates and cushions our joints, it protects our spinal cord and other sensitive tissues, and it helps us get rid of wastes through urination, perspiration, and bowel movements. Moreover, the National Institute on Aging (NIA, 2019) shares that water also helps us absorb nutrients. Our bodies require increased amounts of water at times such as: during the warmer months, when we are more physically active, when we are fighting an infection or running a fever. All in all, hydration effects our bodies both physically and mentally.

In addition to water being found in liquids, including its natural state, water can be found in solids as well. For example, many fruits (ex: watermelon, strawberries, cantaloupe, tomatoes) and vegetables (ex: cucumber, lettuce, celery, zucchini) have high water content.

As we age, our sense of thirst diminishes. It is critical that we help our bodies stay healthy and hydrated through continued intentional efforts. The National Institute on Aging (NIA) (2019) includes the following tips to stay hydrated:

- Don't wait until you feel thirsty to drink water or other fluids.
- Take sips of water, milk, or juice between bites during meals.
- Add liquids throughout the day.
- Have a cup of low-fat soup as an afternoon snack.
- Drink a full glass of water when you take medicine.
- Have a glass of water before you exercise.
- Drink fat-free or low-fat milk, or other drinks without added sugars.
- If you drink alcoholic beverages, do so sensibly and in moderation. That means up to one drink per day for women and up to two drinks for men.
- Don't stop drinking liquids if you have a urinary control problem. Talk with your doctor about treatment.

Call to action: What healthy hydration habit(s) will you intentionally commit to today?

Dear Residents/Family Members,

I hope everyone is enjoying the beautiful weather we are having! It is hard to believe we are already over half way through 2022 and into the 3rd quarter of the year! This means it is time for us to once again collect quarterly bank statements! If you have not already done so, please turn in your April/May/June bank statements on ALL accounts to Donna at the front desk. For sake of time we are asking everyone to send statements in quarterly going forward, as opposed to monthly as some of you have been doing. We will send out reminders at the end of each quarter. This frees up time for Donna, and this way she only has to collect and copy/scan for each resident 4 times a year. As always, we appreciate your cooperation & assistance in helping us maintain your file & compliance with Medicaid/Facility guidelines. If you are a Medicaid recipient and you have a change in income/insurance premiums mid quarter, you will want to notify us right away regardless. This would include increases in income and refunds of premiums previously paid if applicable. Again, if your income changes, you receive extra deposits from social security, or your insurance premiums change we need to be notified as soon as possible to stay in compliance with the State of Illinois. As always, If you have questions about this process, please contact me in the Business Office. I am always available for appointments to discuss any questions you might have.

Thank you,

Sherry Lopez

Business Office Manager
